JOIN The Public Health Association of Nova Scotia (PHANS) - a voluntary, not-for-profit organization affiliated with the Canadian Public Health Association. PHANS advocates for public policy changes that support a broad vision of health for all Nova Scotians and works to enhance the capacity of public health workers in Nova Scotia by providing networking and educational opportunities. Public health results from a healthy community, healthy environment and healthy economy. Membership is open to anyone interested in working to make Nova Scotia a healthy place to live.

PHANS annual regular membership fee is $40 -- $20 for students and retired persons.
